3 AMERICAN STEAMSHIPS TORPEDOED

DEAD IN SINKING PUT AT 300

LONDON, Nov. 10.—According to the Exchange Telegraph Company, the liner Ancona sank after being torpedoed. An Italian submarine and destroyer flotilla is now pursuing the U-boat which attacked the liner. Several Americans were among the passengers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—At least five Americans were on board the Italian liner Ancona, according to advices received by the agents of the line today. Relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Canfield Jones of Philadelphia and of Mrs. S. Sasso of Washington wired to the agents of the Italian line for information, stating that Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Sasso were on board the Ancona. Mr. and Mrs. E. Geiger of New York were also passengers, according to L. L. Geiger, a relative.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Three hundred persons were drowned when the liner Ancona was sunk in the Mediterranean, according to Lloyd's advices. The following report was issued at Lloyd's this afternoon:

"Three hundred on the Ancona were drowned. They were mostly women and children immigrants. Some Americans are reported to have been aboard."

By CAMILLO GIAPPARDA.
ROME, Nov. 10.—The Italian liner Ancona, bound from Naples to New York, has been sunk in the Mediterranean with heavy loss of life, variously estimated here at from 100 to 350.

First reports of the destruction of the liner received here stated that it was sunk by a submarine flying the Austrian flag, but the Ministry of Marine is using the following statement:

"It is impossible to state whether the Ancona was torpedoed. We are waiting fuller reports."

ASO WITH ASKS NEW FUND

By PERCY THOMAS.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Premier Asquith asked the House of Commons today for a vote of credit of £2,000,000, this being the largest vote of credit demanded for purposes of carrying on the war since the conflict began.

The great vote of credit asked for today brings the total amount demanded for war purposes up to £1,310,000,000.

It is costing England $21,750,000 a day to carry on the war.

These figures were given out by Premier Asquith in a statement following his demand for the new vote of credit.

On Sept. 10 last the Premier announced that it was costing England $1,500,000 a day to conduct the war. Six days later Reginald McKenna, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in introducing the budget, announced that it was costing Great Britain "nearly £10,000,000 daily to wage the war."

LEYLAND LINER A U-BOAT VICTIM

The Leyland liner Californian, which was formerly in the Boston service, has been sunk by a submarine, according to a cable dispatch from London this afternoon.

The Californian is one of three more British steamships sunk by submarines. The torpedoing of the three liners was announced by the London Admiralty today.

The other ships which were sunk were the Maritima and the Clan MacAlister.

It is believed in London that the Maritima and Californian were torpedoed in the Mediterranean, according to the dispatch. Both were in the Adriatic.

The sinking of the three British steamships and the torpedoing of the Italian liner Ancona, indicates that the submarine campaign against the shipping has been renewed.

The fall in Germany's submarine activity lasted for several months. Until today, actually, announcements of torpedoed liners were frequent, and explanations sent forth from London were to the effect that British nets had captured so many submarines that they were unable to sink ships.

The Californian had a gross tonnage of 8,277 and a net of 4,044. The Maritima displaced 1,129 tons. The Clan MacAlister, which hailed from Glasgow, displaced 4,444 tons.

The Californian came into the line of sight at the time of the Titanic disaster. When the Titanic struck the iceberg, in the North Atlantic, the Californian, commanded by Captain Lord, was nearby and sent officers of the lifeboat line, it developed later, saw the Titanic's signal, but failed to go to the aid of the sinking liner.

The full story of how the Californian stood within twenty miles of the Titanic came out when the Californian docked in Boston.

The Californian was built at Dundee in 1902, and carried passengers when it was in the Boston service.

FEAR FOR AMERICANS ON ANCONA

To have had several Americans on board, apparently went down off the Algerian coast. It is in this region that German submarines which entered the Mediterranean through the Straits of Gibraltar have been operating.

The British steamer Woodfield, which was being used as a transport, was sunk in the same locality last week.

Reports that the Ancona had been torpedoed were followed to day by other reports that it had first been shelled, but the ministry of marine stated that no official confirmation of any of these reports had been received, later issuing the official announcement given above.

Forty-five survivors of the liner Ancona have been landed at Malta, according to dispatch received here. It gave no information as to whether these were passengers or sailors.

One report said 100 shots were fired by the attacking craft.

Among the saloon passengers on the Ancona was Prince Cassano, who was going to the United States in lecture.

The first reports of the destruction of the liner did not state whether the vessel had been given any warning, but when it was learned that a number of the survivors landed at Malta, officials here declared their belief that the ship had not been warned.

As soon as news of the sinking of the Ancona reached here, the American embassy took steps to ascertain whether there were any Americans on board. A dispatch received from Naples said it was believed that eleven Americans had engaged passage on the liner, but it was not known whether all had sailed.

The opinion was expressed here today that the submarine

TITA RUFFO, famous heroine of grand opera, reported as passenger on the torpedoed liner Ancona.

By International News Service.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—It is reported that Tita Ruffo, the famous Italian opera singer, is a passenger on the liner Ancona from Genoa to New York, reported sunk by an Austrian submarine.

which sank the Ancona was really a German vessel, though flying an Austrian flag. Italian warships have maintained a careful watch at the southern end of the Adriatic, and it is regarded as improbable that an Austrian submarine could have escaped into the Mediterranean.

Reports received here stated that the Ancona was sunk by a large submarine, and this led to the belief that one of the German super-submarines which recently entered the Straits of Gibraltar attacked the Ancona.

Though diplomatic relations between Germany and Italy have been severed, neither country has formally declared war, and this would account for the fact that the Austrian flag was flown by the submarine.

The Ancona was commanded by Captain Mascardo, who has been regarded as one of the ablest commanders on the Atlantic. It is asserted here that if he had been commanded to stop he would not have risked the lives of his passengers and crew by making efforts to escape.

Intense indignation over the sinking of the Ancona was expressed by all the Rome newspapers today.

"The torpedoing of the Ancona appears inexplicable," says the Giornale d'Italia. "Most of the passengers were aged men, women and children."

Other newspapers denounce the destruction of the ship as an act

SINKING OF ANCONA "ABSOLUTE MURDER," SAYS AGENT OF LINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—William Hartfield, general manager of the Italian line, characterized the sinking of the Ancona as "an unnecessary and absolute murder," says the agent of the line.

Although he had no list of her passengers, Mr. Hartfield said the Ancona was carrying 400 passengers and crew, and that she was carrying a large number of women and children on her voyage.

The Ancona, he added, carried a crew of 160 men. At no time, said Mr. Hartfield, did the Ancona carry any armaments or munitions of war, because it was against the rules of the company to carry war munitions on the same vessels with passengers.

The Ancona played a prominent

SERBS RETREAT AT ALL POINTS, SAYS BERLIN

By International News Service.
BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Serbian troops are in full retreat, according to the report of the German press. The German press reported that the Serbian army had been driven back from all points of attack.

The general staff report announced the retreat of the Serbian army. The report stated that the Serbian army had been driven back from all points of attack, and that the German army was now in full possession of the Serbian territory.

AMERICANS ON THE ANCONA, NEW YORK MAN BELIEVES

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—"I believe that there are Americans on the Ancona, although I do not know definitely," declared Louis Solari of the Italian line, speaking today about the destruction of the Italian liner Ancona at sea by a submarine.

"We have received no word as to the Ancona, although I sent an urgent cablegram to Naples for particulars and also for a passenger list."

"The German powers had no excuse for attacking the Ancona. It is true that she carried Italian recruits aboard, taking them on her last voyage east, but she has never been taken over by the government for transport purposes. Nor did she ever carry a cargo of war supplies."

"The last time she was used by the Italian government was in the Turco-Jewish dispute. She was used to transport Jewish refugees from Palestine. This led us to believe that there were some American Jews on the Ancona."

WASHINGTON FEARS NEW CRISIS IN THE ANCONA'S SINKING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—News of the sinking of the Ancona caused a sensation here today, as it was regarded as foreshadowing a new controversy between the United States and Austria, similar to the critical dispute with Germany that followed the torpedoing of the Lusitania.

Ambassador Page at Rome was today directed to report at once on the facts.

Before making any comment, however, officials awaited information on the vessel—whether the vessel was torpedoed without warning and whether any Americans were among the victims.

Should it develop that the liner was warned and ignored it and attempted to escape, the risk of naval warfare.

PEDESTRIANS TO OBEY OR FACE ARREST

Pedestrians who refuse to stop at an intersecting street to allow the passage of automobiles and other vehicles when requested to do so by a policeman are liable to arrest and a fine if an ordinance now under consideration by the street commission becomes operative.

The ordinance came up for consideration today at a hearing by the street commission to city hall. A number of automobilists, representatives of the Automobile Legal Association and other organizations were heard for and against the measure.

Final action will not be taken, however, until chairman Scholer of the Massachusetts Highway Commission has been heard on the matter. It is understood he has a number of suggestions to offer.

Most of those heard in favor of the proposed ordinance pointed out that there were laws in effect now which authorized a policeman to stop a driver of a vehicle into court who does not stop when requested to do so by a policeman at intersecting street, but there was no law to punish a pedestrian for doing the same thing.

General Francis Bradley advocated the adoption of the new rule, saying that Washington street as it was with a "curb," he said, "Pedestrians are to blame when they are injured. The new rule will be beneficial for them to avoid accidents."

Lewis H. Spear, a representative of the Automobile Legal Association, declared there should be a rule for pedestrians as well as for drivers.

Kenneth Hawes of the Safe Road Association favored the measure, saying that 45 per cent of the deaths from accidents were due to pedestrians crossing streets in wrong places, running, or crossing streets in wrong places.

He said that the new rule would be beneficial for them to avoid accidents.

LUIGI THOMAS, slain by nurse who feared her ward was to be taken from her.

WESTFIELD, Nov. 10.—Luigi Thomas, five-year-old son of a Bridgewater, Ct., woman, who was killed by Miss Elizabeth C. Cannon, whose ward she was, was buried in Pine Hill cemetery here today.

The child's grandmother, Mrs. L. I. Monty of Holyoke, claimed the body and took charge of the burial. Dr. Monty Thomas, who is declared to be the girl's mother, was unable to leave Bridgewater on account of illness.

Miss Cannon, who told State detectives she killed the child because his mother had entered claim to it and she could not bear to give up the little girl, is being closely watched at the Springfield jail. She will appear in court on November 19 for a continued hearing on a charge of murder.

It has developed that Miss Cannon drew $100 from a savings bank a few days ago. Neighbors said she burned this money the day before the child was killed.

Friends of Miss Cannon have come to her aid and former Representative Harry B. Fitts will introduce legislation to have the child's body returned to her. Miss Cannon's friends claim she was mentally unbalanced by the thought she would have to give up custody of the child to whom she had become deeply attached.

PROTEST SMITH AS MEMBER OF WAGE BOARD

About forty manufacturers were present today at the hearing before the governor and the board to protest against the nomination of Ernest C. Smith, formerly a Boston city councillor, to the Minimum Wage Commission to succeed Dr. Robert C. Hulse, resigned.

When Eben S. Stevens of the Intervale Mills of Webster and Dudley told how he had been unable to find any strong commendation of Smith's business ability in business circles, Councilor Guy A. Hulse remarked:

"It depends upon where you look. There are some financial interests in the downtown district who believe that the standard finance is to control legislation and matters on Beacon Hill."

The hearing on behalf of the manufacturers was conducted by Ernest I. Bennett of Worcester, who represented a committee of manufacturers and by George H. Cline of Cambridge, president of the New England Conference of American Employers, who voiced the general protest sentiment by saying:

"In view of the fact that the Minimum Wage Commission is a military machine, a minimum wage for employers, the new member of the board should be a manufacturer who knows what payrolls mean and who knows thoroughly our conditions of business."

Smith at the request of Governor Walsh told what his business qualifications were. He said he graduated from Harvard and from Harvard Law school and that as a bond broker he had conducted many investigations of business plants such as would have to be done by the Minimum Wage Commission.

BRYAN TO STUMP AGAINST PLAN OF DEFENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Former Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan will take the stump next week in his fight on President Wilson's program for national defence.

He announced today that he will start for Florida Sunday. He plans to make several speeches on the way, in which he will attack the President's plan.

The former secretary also issued a statement today in which he replied to President Wilson's action in his fight on the bill to declare his stand. He declared he was for the bill, but he believed the President should ignore the threat of the Congress and the threat of the President should ignore the threat of the Congress.

Bryan asserted it was all right for the President to use such passages from the Bible because he "quotes Christ with the malice of a demon."

What the world needs today is a President, not an Ambassador, he said.

MELLEN ACTS AS DEMONSTRATOR AT TRIAL

By J. V. B. RECKER.

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The government in the New Haven conspiracy trial before Federal Judge Hunt today proceeded to tighten the links forged against William Rockefeller and the other former directors of the New Haven, by amplifying the evidence covering the New England Central New England deal.

This was done by reading correspondence and minute book records.

When the prosecution introduced the matter of the proposed lease of the New England Central in Dutchess County, New York, in the Central New England trial, it put in evidence the first conspiracy claim, by which it hopes to pin the defendants to the charges contained in the government's indictment. The proposed Central New England lease, which, though not executed, was authorized by the New Haven directors at a meeting in 1913 and was ratified at the trial, was the last New Haven meeting that Lewis Chase Ledyard attended.

Reading correspondence by late John S. Hall, who preceded Charles S. Mellen as president of the New Haven, but, next, sought to show to the jury how the railroad was owned by the Central Vermont Electric Railway Company and the Rutland Steamship Company.

Mellen still was a witness, but a witness not having anything to do but to identify signatures on letters and from time to time point out on blue print maps the routes of railway and steamship lines mentioned in the trial.

Courtroom lunch recess with Mellen still reading.

135 Billion Dollars

The ultimate security back of a national loan lies in the taxing power of the Government and the wealth of the nation against which taxes may be levied and revenues collected. The combined wealth of Great Britain and France which is the ultimate security for the is estimated at 135 billion dollars. A tax of less than 1-1/2% levied against the wealth of these two nations would pay off the entire amount of this loan, which constitutes their only external debt.

It Invariably Happens That the Athlete Who Is Long on Words Is Short on Deeds

SCOUTS MAY GET IN PRINCETON BATTLE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10.—Can Yale come back? The Ell coaches looked for the afternoon practice to shed some light on this question than anything offered by the team in the last month.

Tom Shewell, the "human dynamo" stood over the machine in the final trial to drive it at whirlwind speed. The driver, Yale man in the machine, and came down to defeat four times the Ell, and the coaches expected to show the form and class which they have felt all season it possessed, but can never show.

The coaches conferred at length over the three position, which are not quite as good.

TWO LINE COMBINATIONS.

In the case of Halderson, his attitude toward the game is wholly a matter of condition. He has not fully recovered from his injury of five weeks ago and will probably play less than last season and will probably play less than last season and will probably play less than last season.

The coaches conferred at length over the three position, which are not quite as good.

TIGER MONEY ENGAGED.
Loss of money is shown in the vicinity of the Yale campus (can you see the novelty of Princeton men flashing wagers at odds of five to one upon Yale men in the town of the Ell, is being witnessed. If the Ell could prove in good condition when he reports today the situation will shift. He has promised to don his uniform for this afternoon's practice. He is the only candidate for the position of left halfback and will probably play less than last season and will probably play less than last season.

Tells Singers to Wed and Be Happy

Evelyn Scotney Says There Is More Joy in Love of Husband and Children Than in Fame

EVELYN SCOTNEY, the beautiful and magnetic prima donna who sings beautiful songs as charmingly as she does the great operatic roles, believes that an artist should marry, and marry young.

"The woman's place is in the home," she says, "although I do not mean to say that she should never come out. But I believe that a woman is happiest in her home with her husband and children, and what does it profit a woman to climb to the distant pinnacles of success if she is lonely when she gets there."

You hear a lot about the injury to one's career by marriage. I married at the very beginning of my operatic career, and I have never regretted it for a moment. I would not be a singer to marry a man who is not musical.

I whose occupation requires her to travel from place to place, and I do not think it is good for a woman to leave her husband to travel to all quarters of the world alone.

Two poses of Evelyn Scotney, who has won both fame and happiness.

I am sorry for great singers and actresses who reach middle age unmarried and have to descend into old age alone, or surrounded by people who are attracted by money, fame, influence or any quality except love.

I admire Mrs. Schumann-Heink, who has many children, a Mrs. Homer, who has sacrificed much for her family, I admire them as much as I do Miss Marjorie and Miss Geraldine Farmer, who are equally great artists, and probably much happier.

In Our Wonderful World

The golden-crested wren is the smallest of all European birds. Its average weight is only about eight grains, so that it would take twenty-two of the birds to weigh a pound. The length of the feathers is about three and a half inches, and the stretch of the wings about five inches, but when the feathers are taken off the length of the body does not exceed one inch.

The sky of Italy is noted for its clearness. The blue is deeper, not because the sun there is fiercer than in the northern countries, but because in the countries of the north, due to the greater closeness of the dust particles that become larger and consequently not so effective in turning back the blue rays alone, but others are also effective, and a grayish light is produced. In a single location, the blue of the sky may appear bluer at one time than at another.

Another, The sky is oftentimes said to be very blue when some white cumulus clouds are gulfed against it in consequence of the great contrast with the blue of the sky. After a shower, when the least stratum of air is washed of its coarse dust particles, a deeper and purer blue is the result.

A Great Kidney Remedy
According to Thousands Of Reports
My wife has been suffering with kidney and bladder trouble in a bad form since she was nine years of age. She was in such a condition that she was confined to her bed and several doctors here treated her but to no effect. About nine months ago she began to take Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root and began to improve immediately. She is practically well now and is able to do all of her work and is able to do all of her work and is able to do all of her work.

At the time she was sick she suffered greatly and it looked as if she would die, but thanks to your valuable remedy, she is now a new woman. I can recommend Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root as the best kidney and bladder remedy on earth and if you desire you may publish this letter in the hope that it may enable other sufferers to get relief.

Yours very truly,
G. T. CUREY,

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1915

We hope that for once the administration will act upon its statement. But we fear that it is hope of the kind which, while it has been long enough deferred, maketh sick the heart.

Yet surely if ever a high-spirited and strong people had occasion given them to expect their government both to speak and to act vigorously and peremptorily, the manifold injuries and aggressions inflicted upon our commerce and the contempt directed at our independent sovereignty by the British Admiralty during twelve shameful months have given that occasion.

In regard to the relative value of diamonds of different colors, it may be said, generally, that the perfectly transparent, uncolored stones, which show no hues except those produced by refraction, stand at the head. Sometimes a tinge of green, if possessing extraordinary "fire," and of considerable size, may excel in value. The Russian crown, for instance, has a deep red diamond, which, because of its rarity, is very highly valued.
